

2024/2025 The DEEPMED Seminar: A History Forum for Science, Strategy, and Environment in the Mediterranean Sea

25/09. Isabel Cacho (Universitat de Barcelona),
Decoding past changes in Mediterranean deep circulation

23/10. Nancy Ko (Columbia University, New York)
How Deep do "Historical Rights" Go?
Contesting the Legal Legacies of the Greek Diver from the Mediterranean to the Pacific

20/11. 12h (NOTE TIME CHANGE!) María Villa Alfageme (Universidad de Sevilla)
Observing and measuring the biological pump: building a global database

11/12. José Carlos Cañizares (DEEPMED / Universidad de Sevilla)
The history and challenges of conservation efforts in the Mediterranean Sea

29/01. Davide Orsini (Rachel Carson Center for Environment and Society, München)
Wasting the Mediterranean: Radioecology, Military Bases, and Nuclear Power Plants

19/02. Pier Luigi Pireddu (C. Interuniv. de Hist. das Ciências e da Tecnologia, Lisbon)
History of ecology: exploring aquatic environments through the "station movement" across Mediterranean and Anglo-American worlds

12/03. Stathis Arapostathis (National and Kapodistrian University of Athens)
Weather Modeling as Knowledge Politics in SouthEast Mediterranean: Expertise and Politics of Infrastructures, 1980-2020

09/04. Gelina Harlaftis (Institute for Mediterranean Studies, FORTH, Rethymno)
New directions in maritime history of the Mediterranean

14/05. Alessandra Passariello (Stazione Zoologica Anton Dohrn, Napoli)
When did aliens become a problem? The Mediterranean Association for Marine Biology and Oceanology in the 1960s

11/06. Mohamed Gamal-Eldin (Rutgers, Newark)
The Suez Canal and the Making of the Mediterranean

All talks are 15h CET. The seminar is hybrid. You are welcome to come to Room 59 at the Centro Internacional de la Universidad de Sevilla or join online here

Organized by ERC-CoG DEEPMED- 101002330.
Discovering the Deep Mediterranean Environment: A History of Science and Strategy (1860-2020). Universidad de Sevilla.
For more information (and collaborations), please visit our website
All talks will be uploaded to the DEEPMED Youtube channel.

